'FIRST AID' IN LOST DOG PLEA

Whenever anything happens in Richmond it is customary for the papers to call the Abbott Emergency hospital for help.

But for the first time in some moons, the Abbott Emergency hospital last night called the papers for aid, reversing the schedule.

Dr. U. S. Abbott, local physician, reported that his wire-haired terrier pup had either strayed or had been stolen from his home at 5409 Barrett avenue. Dr. Abbott described the dog as being five months old, white with black spots and it answers to the name of "Borowfe."

The pup is the doctor's newest pet and its loss has been a hard blow. Anyone finding the lost animal may call Dr. Abbott at Richmond 2 and receive a reward.

NET CLOSING IN AROUND 'APE BOY'

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 18—UP—Bits of circumstantial evidence tending to draw a web of guilt about Gordon Stewart Northcott were introduced by the state today in the trial of the aserted Wineville "Murder Farm" proprietor.

Lester Graham, deputy sheriff of Riverside county who has been employed as a guard on the little Northcott chicken ranch since Sept. 15, related the findings he made after a minute inspection of the premises.

Earth taken from the chicken yard was screened and in it were found bones, hair, pieces of scalp and finger and toe nails, Graham testified. All were turned over to Clark Sellers, Los Angeles criminologist.

Other Evidence

In a pile of ashes where something apparently had been burned Graham said he found eyelets of shoes and exploded cartridges.

Earlier in the session Chester Lloyd, detective lieutenant of Los Angeles, testified that he found a double grave and a single grave on the "murder farm" where the state charges four southern California youths met their deaths at the hands of Northcott.

Lloyd said in the double grave he found two holes—cup-like in shape—indicating, in his opinion,

Four Sing On Way To Chair

MILLEGEVILLE, Ga., Jan. 18 UP—"Swing low, sweet chariot," sang four negroes today as they marched to the electric chair.

"Swing low, sweet chariot," they sang in the death chamber, "Coming—For to Carry Me Home."

Marshall Reddick, who killed a Manchester Ga., policeman was the first to be strapped in the chair. "For to carry me home." His voice ceased.

"Swing low, sweet chariot," three voices carried on, "a band of angels, coming after me."

Only two were left when the current struck Clarence George murderer of another negro. "Swing low, sweet chariot," they walked.

"I look over Jordan, and what God I see," quavered Will Gillam.

"A band of Angles—coming, for carry me home."

The sound died away and there was silence in the death chamber.

MARTINEZ, Jan. 18. Two interlocutory decrees of divorce were granted yesterday afternoon in Superior Court Judge H. V. Alvarado's court.

On the grounds of desertion, William N. Wilgus was granted a divorce from Mrs. Alice Wilgus. Madge C. Trenery received a divorce from Sheldon Trenery on charges of cruelty.

BANK OF ITALY HEAD AIDS JOHN D.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (U.P.)—The A. P. Giannini banking interests on the Pacific coast today threw their support to John D. Rockefeller, while the members of the board of directors of the Midwest Refining company as individuals expressed their approval of Col. Robert W. Stewart as the day's leading developments in the Stewart-Rockefeller financial contest.

Stewart, chairman of the board and Rockefeller, who controls 14 percent of the company's stock, are engaged in a contest for control of the Standard Oil company of Indiana. Rockefeller had demanded Stewart retire from the company as a result of Stewart's connection with the Continental Trading company deals revealed by the senate oil investigation.

The Giannini interest hold 35,000 shares of stock of the Standard of Indiana through their Trans-Am-

Male Of Species Here Declared Good Cooks

The superiority of the female over the male in cooking dainty morsels has often been discussed, argued and talked about by the ladies of good foods. In nine out of ten arguments the female is considered the best cook.

But at the Longfellow junior high school the question is still in the air although the advantages seem to be given to the lowly male.

Eighteen boys have joined the cooking club in the school and every Friday afternoon they don the apron, roll up their sleeves and cook foods "like mother used to make."

Miss Anne Olsen, home economic teacher, is in charge of the club and she instructs the boys in culinary arts.

At cooking, boys are as good if not better, than the girls, Miss Olsen said yesterday. They are more interested in the work, she admitted, and are able to pick up the "whyfors" of good cooking in a shorter time than the girls.

The boys start out by cooking camp meals of stews and other hardy foods. At the present they are learning the secrets of good pie and cake making. Some of their dishes are "fit to be set before a king," Miss Olsen said.

Although the boys are not planning to become chefs in later years, they have all agreed that cooking is a "good thing to learn" and that it might "come in handy some day."

School Heads Quit After Girl's Death

ALBUQUERUE, N. M., Jan. 18 (U.P.) Resigning under fire, Miss Bertha Lips, superintendent of the state welfare home for girls, and Dr. Evelyn Frisbie, the home physician, quit their posts late today as a legislative committee completed an investigation of the death of Helen Haskew, 18, an inmate of the home.

A coroner's investigation disclosed Helen died from injections of twilight sleep when she rebel-

Unusual Procedure In Island Flood Suits

MARTINEZ, Jan. 18. Damage suits have been agreed upon by opposing litigants in Empire suits in an unusual procedure before the question of the defendant's liability has been decided.

W. T. Sesnon, wealthy land owner on Bethel Island in the San Joaquin river, and the Anglo and London Paris National bank of San Francisco have agreed that the latter's holdings on the island were damaged to the extent of $49,189.06 in the flood which resulted from a levee break on the Sesnon property in August 1926.

Although an agreement has been reached in the amount of the damages Sesnon does not bar on the judgment debtor in that suit as Superior Judge H. V. Alvarado, in whose court suit was filed, has not yet determined the question of Sesnon's liability for the levee break and the resulting flood.

County Scout Camp Bought At Long Barn

MARTINEZ, Jan. 18—Purchase of a site consisting of 20 acres of virgin timber land one mile west of Long Barn on the Mono highway to be used for a summer and winter camp, was made yesterday by the Contra Costa County Scout council. The deal which is understood to have amounted to $2500 was completed by J. R. Warne, County Scout executive, through E. H. Moyer of Concord and H. A. West of Antioch.

The camp site is situated at an elevation of 5000 feet. It is easily reached by paved and graveled roads which run within a mile of the property. There are three springs located on the land and a stream flowing through the property will be dammed to provide swimming facilities. The country presents excellent facilities for hiking and fishing trips.

Plans will be started immediately so that the new camp can be opened this summer.

Martinez Dam Urged For State Project

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 18. Construction of a 50,000,000 dam at or near Martinez as a part of the state coordinated water conservation and development program is recommended in the report of the joint legislative water resources committee filed with the state legislature this afternoon.

In the report the engineers agree as a unit in recommending that the Carquinez straits dam can be built successfully. Its construction in their opinion would create a fresh water lake of Suisun bay that would be of great benefit to delta agriculturists and industrial enterprises.

Other projects receiving the recommendation of the engineers are the Kennett dam and the San Joaquin valley diversion line. The committee unanimously approved the recommendations. Several sites from Martinez to Richmond were investigated by the committee together with estimates for costs of construction and feasibility of plans.

A. B. Hinkley First To File In Council Race

The first nominating petition for the city council election to be held May 13 was filed with A. C. Faris, city clerk, yesterday morning by Dr. A. B. Hinkley, incumbent. As a result of being the first to file, Dr. Hinkley's name will head the list on the ballots. Names appear on the ballots in the order petitions are filed.

George F. Black and E. A. Martin also seeking reelection, have secured their nominating petitions which are now being circulated. Neither petition was filed yesterday but may be filed today.

Terms of the above councilmen and Mrs. Helen Collins appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of her husband, the late Councilman John I. Collins, expire this year.

1859 BILLS BEFORE SOLONS

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 18.—UP—The California state legislature adjourned late today for a constitutional recess of one month following a final day packed with action and excitement.

Although several hundred bills were introduced, bringing the total to nearly 1800, interest centered around attempts to bring impeachment proceedings against Judge Carlos S. Hardy of Los Angeles on charges of accepting a fee from Aimee Semple McPherson while in office.

Probe Ordered

Following five hours of debate the assembly voted, 63 to 6, to appoint a committee of five to investigate the matter and report the advisibility of impeachment charges in the assembly.

Many members of the assembly insisted on the investigation, arguing there was not enough evidence for so drastic an action as had been introduced. A compro-

DRINKING TOLD AT KEYES TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 18.—UP—Asa Keyes and Ben Getzoff plotted freedom for criminals between drinks in the back office of Getzoff's little tailor shop the state attempted to prove at today's session of the Keyes bribery trial.

Col. H. E. Light, a prosecution witness said on direct examination that while he was waiting to see Getzoff on May 5, 1928, he observed the former district attorney and the tailor shop owner drinking whiskey and passing money.

Keyes, Getzoff and four others are accused of conspiracy to give and receive bribes to obtain the dismissal and acquittal of Julian Petroleum corporation defendants.

U. C. Faculty Recorder Dies

BERKELEY, Jan. 18.—UP—James Sutton, 63, recorder for the faculty of the University of California since 1891, died here late today of pneumonia.

The recorder was the oldest official of the institution for years of service, having assumed the important position three years after his graduation from the school. He was born in Covington, Ky., on June 30, 1865.

THE NEW YEAR

This is the season of New Year's resolutions. People are making them on every side, are resolving to take a new start and have a new program of conduct. Many of these resolutions will fall before Spring. The reason they will fade is that they are based on our present appetites and notions in the individual are subject to change as are most human attributes.

It may be asked then whether any New Year's resolutions can prevail, granting the truth of the above assertion. Undoubtedly they can, if the good resolves are based on principle rather than on the feeling of the moment, for principles are eternal, remain unchanged century after century. Base your resolutions therefore on a principle and by a careful self-inventory, discover which principle in your case is the one to be stressed whether it be the principle of industry as opposed to excess in idleness, of temperance as opposed to excess in eating or in drinking, of rational economy as opposed to wastefulness or penury.

Assuming that you practice temperance and a reasonable amount of industry, rational economy, or good financial housekeeping is an excellent reason to start with on the first day of any year. Barring unusual circumstances it is easy to save a little each week and each month if your expenditures are carefully audited and your wants made reasonably modest.

But we cannot live alone, within ourselves. See if New Year Resolutions are good for the individual, why not for the home community also? Why not resolve that we will make our home city a better place in which to live than it was a year ago? Why not resolve that we will make it cleaner and more orderly to increase its prosperity as much as possible and add our mite to its growth and progress? Certainly this will be a paying resolution, and it is one which the civic organizations can heed as well as the individual. The first of the year is a good time to put our house in order and see whether we cannot do something bigger and better than usual during the year 1929.

BOY SCOUTS

James E. West, Chief Scout Executive of the Boy Scouts of America, says that the Boy Scout Movement does not pretend to take the place of either the home, Crurch, or the school, although it supplements the work of them all. It's purpose is to help parents by imparting to boys the manly ethics of Scouting. It seeks to help boys to help themselves to gain physical, mental and moral training. Every Boy Scout takes a pledge to help others. He has taken as his motto, "Be Prepared." The Boy Scout is given an education in camps which could not be given in the classroom. The Scout Movement is an effort to start lads between the ages of 12 and 18 in the right direction; and the wonder of it all is that the movement functions under volunteer leadershihp.

The old-fashioned man, who used to split kindling and carry in the wood for mother now has a son who gets all his exercise in a gym suit.

In this general boom in the stock market, its a good think to remember the old law of nature to the effect that what goes up must come down.

The race may not be to the swift, but the slow don't gain anything by playing tortoise.

One thing about the old codgers who give the fatherly kiss is that they always pick out good-looking recipients.

Had it ever occured to you that one way to solve the prohibition enforcement law would be for everyone who complains about it to quit drinking liquor?

What Shall I Wear?

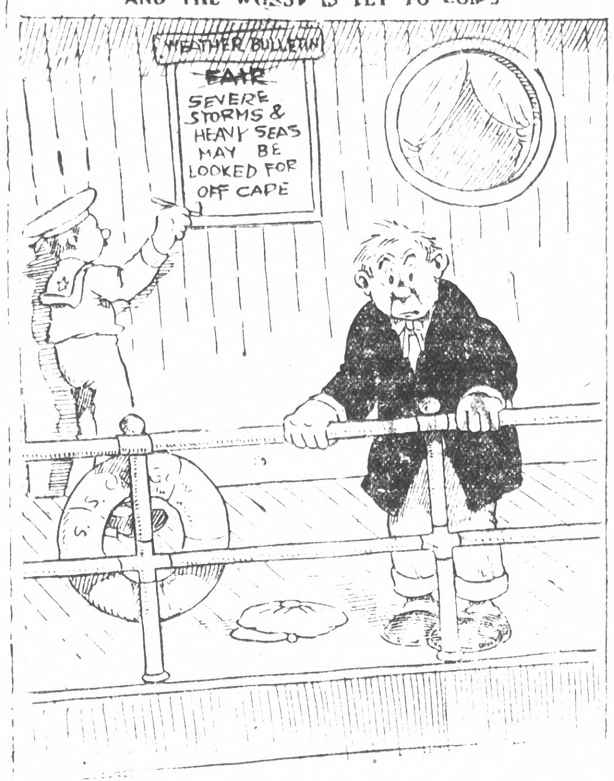

By JUDIE

WHAT SHALL I WEAR

Molyneux dinner gown of [illegible] ... with glitter added by [illegible] of metallic thread embroidery and sequins which ornaments it from the Gypsy knotted girdle fall four circular panels of different lengths cut in one piece with it; the edges are finished with picoting. The [illegible] decolletage is deeper in the back.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME

Dear Judie,

I am going to have a new evening dress and am thinking of having it figured. Do you believe it a wise choice? I have three evening dresses now that are in good condition, and I want something different yet not too extreme. Are the French wearing many figured gowns for evening?

W. N. B.

At the recent Paris showings several houses [illegible] showed figured evening dresses. The one sketched is a Molyneux model and attractive. You will note he has used georgette. Printed taffeta might easily be substituted and is new. Of course you are not foolish to select a sport. Once you want it especially as you have other frocks with which to change off.

Your for style,
JUDIE.

BEAUTY

My Dear Miss Lane:

I want to let my hair grow, but it looks so awful when it gets long that I dread doing it. I have never looked really well with my hair short and I am anxious to have it long enough to arrange as I used to. Is there any way of jumping this awkward, inbetween stage? L.

If you can afford a permanent you will find it much easier to arrange those straggly locks. For a while you may have to wear it long at least until you can tuck the ends under a transformation.

Dear Miss Lane

I am troubled a lot with having my chin break out and I don't seem to be able to clear it up. Otherwise my skin is unblemished, and I'm very sensitive about these spots. How can I get rid of them?

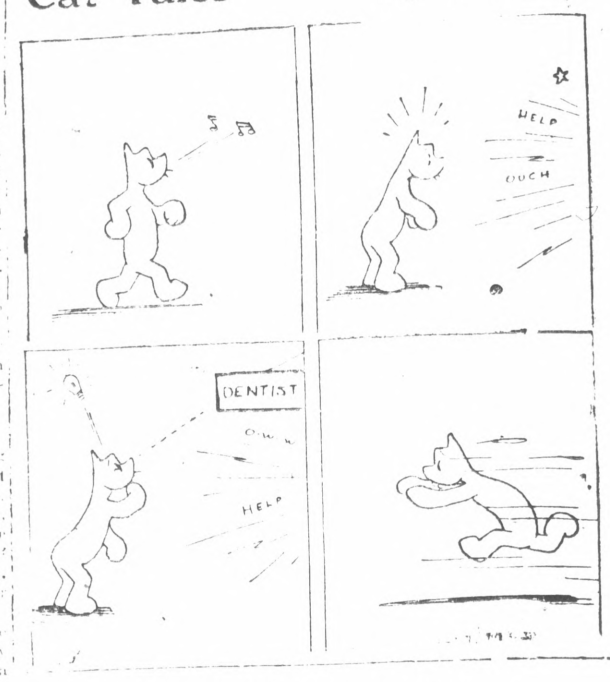

BARBARA.

Before doing anything to your face, ask yourself these questions: Do I get enough exercise and fresh air? Do I eliminate my food properly? And do I eat a well-balanced diet and drink enough water? After you can say yes to all of them, begin on the chin.

Wash your face at your skin [illegible] with shaving soap and warm water, rinse carefully and dry. Then remove what black heads you can and apply an antiseptic lotion to heal them. Don't use any cosmetics until the condition is cleared up and don't massage the skin with cold cream.

R. L. Benton, recently installed as commander, presided over his first meeting last night. Following the next meeting of the camp, Otto Poulsen, past commander, will provide a banquet. Members were instructed to report all sickness to the commander, adjutant or quartermaster.

United Veteran Auxiliary Names New Committees

The first meeting of Richmond auxiliary United Veterans of the Republic under the recently elected officers was held last night in Memorial hall with Mrs. Gertrude Sherman, president, presiding. Committees for the year were appointed.

Visitors were present from Oakland. Balloting on candidates was held and plans for an initiation to be held next month.

MRS. SNOWDEN HOSTESS TO ALWUN CLUB

Mrs. Belle Snowden was hostess to the members of the Alwun club yesterday afternoon at her home for a social meeting. Luncheon was served at noon and whist was played. Prizes were won by Mrs. Ruby Allen, Mrs. Mildred Kneeland, Mrs. T. J. Hathaway, and Mrs. Blanche Hartley.

Mrs. Kneeland will be hostess to the club at her home 630 Thirty-first street on Feb. 3.

EDDIE BAKER RECOVERS

Eddie Baker, Richmond traffic officer, has returned to his duties following a slight attack of influenza. Baker was confined to his home for ten days.

Log Cabin Camp Seats New Leaders

C. V. Phillips was installed consul commander of Log Cabin camp Woodmen of the World at ceremonies held last night in Woodmen hall. J. N. Vanoni, past consul commander, was installing officer.

Other officers to head the organization for the coming year are J. E. Edelman, past commander; John Braz, advisory lieutenant; George Starvos, escort; W. J. Black, banker; C. C. Engelman, clerk; H. G. Keck, manager; I. J. Christopher, sentry and M. Glazier watchman.

Following installation, initiation was held. A banquet was served by George F. Black, George Starvos and I. J. Christopher.

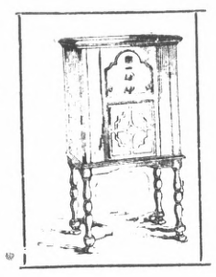

Jobs Daughters Will Meet Today

The Richmond Bethel of Jobs Daughters will hold its session this afternoon at the Masonic hall at 2 o'clock. Roll call will be held and every member has been urged to be in attendance. A social afternoon will be enjoyed.

TOM MIX PLAYS IN SLASHING THRILLER

With Tom Mix in the starring role and embodying all the elements that make for the perennial appeal ... of western photoplay, "Outlawed," an F.B.O. super-western, is now playing at the California theatre.

... thrills, a plenty ... dramatic action, splendidly portrayed by an exceptional supporting cast headed by charming Sally Blane, and gripping suspense that is sure to hold the audience ... Tom Mix, the outstanding ... of cowboy actors, had so ... vehicle for his varied talents.

The story upon which the picture is based has the merit of being plausible and interest compelling, while it lacks nothing in the way of ... In "Outlawed" Tom portrays the role of a cowboy known in Texas as "Lightning" who arrives in a strange Arizona town at night on his way to a new job on a big ranch. He ... the body of a murdered banker, is accused of the killing and bank robbery by the real culprits and after being ... makes his escape to the ... of cowboy friends. There "Lightning" is "outlawed" and all the trend of thrilling and dramatic events ... his ... and ... the "bad ..."

Sally Blane, excellent actress and leading woman whose rise in films has been rapid, is appearing as the daughter of the ranch owner who defends Lightnin', and Mix's famous horse, Tony, lends able aid to the star in circumventing the villain. Eugene Forde's directorial skill is evident throughout the picture, and the various roles are ably handled by Barney Furey, Al Smith, Ethan Laidlaw and Al Ferguson.

BOOK LISTS OF ADULTS VARY IN TESTS

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 18.—UP—Hundreds of prominent local citizens have answered letters from grammar school children who were interested in finding what books their elders liked to read when they were young.

The choices varied, but Bobby Jones was one of those who picked Kipling's Jungle Book. In his letter he said: "No boy can fail to enjoy reading about Mowgli, the little boy who was cared for and nursed by mother wolf and reared with her cubs."

The most popular choices were Aesop's Fables, Robinson Crusoe, Swiss Family Robinson, Tom Sawyer, Uncle Remus Stories, and Robin Hood.

Classifying the groups that answered the queries, it appeared the ministers had a flair for Aesop's Fables. One picked Alice in Wonderland and one Robin Hood. Louisa M. Alcott's stories also were among the selections.

As for the business man, including the bankers, the taste ran towards Robin Hood, Swiss Family Robinson, Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn.

Among those interested in politics or holding government positions Aesop's Fables sprang into first place.

Members of the bar apparently ... Joel Chandler Harris' Uncle Remus stories or ... Tom Sawyer. A few picked Hawthorne's Wonder Book.

Fastest Motor Ship Planned

GOTHENBURG, Jan. 18. UP—The flagship of the Swedish merchant marine, the new motor liner "Kungsholm" of the Swedish American Line, will be a faster ship than any other Scandinavian vessel. Based on her performance during her trial trip, she will be able to make the trans-Atlantic crossing in eight days instead of nine.

The boat will leave Gothenburg for New York on her maiden trip on Nov. 24. She measures 19,000 gross tons and has a displacement of 26,000 tons.

Protect Children After Influenza

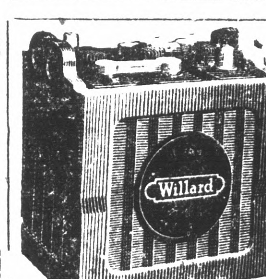

Colds Attacking Weakened System May Lead to Pneumonia

The chief danger in this epidemic is after a flu attack. Then more than ever, the slightest cold may lead to bronchitis, pneumonia, or a second and more severe case of flu.

Flu nearly always leaves the stomach upset, internal medication should, therefore, be avoided, as it so often further disturbs the digestion and thus retards recovery.

But if a fresh cold comes, don't let the child keep it overnight. Just rub Vicks on throat and chest at bedtime. As it is applied externally, Vicks can be used freely and often, with no fear of upsetting a delicate stomach.

Vicks act 2 ways at once (both absorbed and inhaled) to check the cold and avoid serious complications. And, of course, it is just as good for adults.

City Has 1600 Varied Noises

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 18.—UP—Sixteen hundred different noises grate upon the ears of Milwaukee citizens, according to a survey just completed by the police department. Flat tired street cars, fog horns, riveting hammers, early crowing roosters are among the noises listed on report sheets by patrolmen and detectives. The data is to be used in an attempt to make Milwaukee the quietest city in the United States.

"MY MAN," starring Fannie Brice, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

In a Bronx apartment Fanny Grice is bringing up her orphaned brother, Phil, and her pretty but selfish sister, Audrey. Fanny, older than Audrey, makes every sacrifice that her sister may be saved from the humdrum life she, herself, leads. On her way to Thorne's, theatrical costumers, where she sews, Fanny sees a handsome young man demonstrating muscle builders. Then on her eighteenth birthday, Audrey announces that she is leaving home to "live her own life." Meantime, Lazarus, art director for Waldo, a theatrical producer, hears Fanny sing, and arranges an audition before Waldo, who is impressed. But the audition is interrupted.

CHAPTER V

Waldo, left alone in the rehearsal room, took a couple of steps back and forth, still frowning, his black brows drawn together, almost hiding his eyes. He fumbled about in his vest pocket and took out a cigar, biting nervously on the end of it. Then he searched about for a packet of matches and lit the cigar, turning it about in his fingers until the tip glowed red and round. Finally he walked across the floor to where a long tapestry hung. He pushed back the drape and opened a door. Audrey Grice stepped into the room.

"Well, where've you been?" the girl demanded, marching across the room and flinging herself into a big chair. "You might call a fella up sometimes."

"I've been busy, Audrey, you know that." Waldo paced about uneasily, watching the girl out of

"That's a lotta bologny," said Audrey.

the corners of his eyes. "Getting ready for a new show, and all that sort of thing."

"That's a lotta bologney," Audrey retorted, flinging back her heavy fur coat and settling herself comfortably in the chair. "You can't fool me, Wally. I'm a wise baby. You'd better try another excuse—that one I heard when Noah was a pooch."

She opened her long beaded bag and extracted a package of cigarettes, lit one, flung the match across the floor and began to smoke.

"Well, go ahead, spill it!" she commanded, blowing a long curl of blue smoke ceilingward. 'What's the big idea? Where've you been?"

"Audrey, I tell you I've been busy. I've been working night and day," Waldo began. "I'm casting, and I've got people waiting now."

"Well, let them wait," Audrey returned flippantly, "because I want to talk to you."

"Look here, Audrey, what'd you come here for anyhow?" Waldo stood facing her, chewing abstractedly on his cigar. "I've told you not to bother me at the office. I can't have you running in and out of here when I'm trying to get some work done."

"You didn't used to mind it," Audrey reminded him, her lips curling scornfully. "And besides, I come up the back way like you told me to."

"That's neither here nor there. I told you the last time I saw you I'd phone you just as soon as I got a chance."

"Well, why didn't you take a chance? Steve Brody did. Anyhow, I didn't come up here to talk about that. What I wanna know is, do I get a chance in this show or not?"

Waldo turned and walked across the room and back again.

"Now what's the use of bringing that up again?" he demanded. "I don't want to turn you down, Audrey, but you're not a dancer—you can't sing—I've got to have trained girls for the chorus, and—"

"Well, I could learn," Audrey insisted.

"I told you a long time ago that if you wanted to study seriously, I'd give you a chance in the chorus, but you wouldn't stick to it. Not that I blame you," he added hastily. "It's damned hard work."

"Well, why don't you give me a speaking part?"

"You haven't had any training, and besides, you know I've told you that I don't like mixing business up with—er—with friendship."

"You mean you just don't want me around."

"Nothing of the sort," Waldo answered quickly. "If you had some training I'd give you a chance in the chorus, and you could see what you could do, and then if you made good you could work up. But I'm not going to give you a part, and that's final."

"All right!" Audrey jumped up and douced her cigarette.

In the adjoining room where Fanny sat waiting, with Jimmy for company, the two could hear the sound of voices rising and falling. Fanny was too preoccupied with her own thoughts to pay any attention to what was going on. Her heart was singing—singing. She had made good—almost. She had pleased Waldo. Oh, if only she could make him like her next song. It would mean everything in the world. She could scarcely believe that she was awake and actually experiencing such things. She repeated over and over to herself Waldo's words: "That was very good, Miss Grice. Would you mind trying something else?"

Just to think of Waldo, Bronson Waldo, the famous producer, saying anything like that to her! She shivered in delightful ecstacy. She wondered what would happen next. If he liked her other song—of course a lot would depend on that, but she felt so confident now, so sure of herself, she couldn't fail. Nothing on earth could make her fail. And if he did like it, did it mean that he would give her a part in a show, or what? She didn't know just how such matters were conducted.

It was like a fairy tale—not at all like real life. It was something one might read about. Just having Lazarus see her that day, and then finally to be singing before Waldo. Why, she might even be a star some day. Stranger things had happened. And Waldo was noted for discovering people and bringing them to the fore. He'd made lots of stars—he might make her. But that was too far to see. If he only gave her one little part—a chance to sing, that was enough. She'd work hard.

"That's th' big boss's girl friend out there." It was Jimmy, the office boy, who broke into Fanny's reverie, his grinning countenance turned on the girl.

"Oh, yes?" Fanny smiled. Even the office boy didn't seem to be as formidable as he had before.

"Sure," Jimmy returned, raising an eyebrow and winking. "But he'll get rid of her pretty quick," he confided. He could afford to be friendly with Fanny, he thought. Wasn't the "big boss" giving her a tryout? And didn't that mean he was interested? Jimmy was always on the safe side.

"Why, doesn't he like her?" Fanny questioned, more to make conversation than from any interest in the affair.

"Aw, sure, but not so much as he usedta," Jimmy informed her. "She can sure raise hell, that dame. I heard her cussin' him out onct. I bet she's razzin' him now." He bent an ear to the keyhole and listened attentively, much to Fanny's amusement.

"Yep." He stood up and leaned against the door. "She's givin' it ta him good an' plenty. But she's a swell lookin' dame, though. She wansa go in th' show, but he won't give her a part."

"Oh, no? Why not?" Fanny questioned.

"He never does none of his dames," Jimmy answered with a supercilious air, proud of his intimate knowledge of his employer's affairs. "He always says he don't mix business with pleasure. It don't pay."

Fanny giggled at the youth's bald statement. "Does he have many dames?" she asked dropping into the boy's vernacular.

"Not since he's had this one," Jimmy snickered. "She's been keepin' him steppin'. But he don't like that—not him. He'll stand fer just so much off'n her, an' nen he'll give her th' go-bye. He's tryin' to now, on'y she's a hard one ta shake."

"You seem to know a lot about it, don't you?" Fanny laughed.

"Well, o' course ya can't help hearin' a lotta things aroun' in this business," Jimmy declared importantly, once more lowering his ear to the keyhole. "Everybody aroun' on Broadway's got sumpin' on everybody else. They ain't no secrets aroun' this street. She's still razzin' him, an' he's tryin' ta stall her off about th' show," the boy informed Fanny. "It won't be long now, though."

"What makes you think he's going to give her the go-bye?" Fanny asked.

for YEARS of GLORIOUS ENTERTAINMENT,

Three beautiful walnut cabinets have been created by an artist in furniture design and offer assurance of lasting satisfaction. Above is the compact, self-contained Table Model, $240 complete with tubes and dynamic speaker. This model, combined with a neat speaker table, makes the Consolette.

Immortal operas that have thrilled music lovers for ages past—through how many tomorrows they will be heard again in this magnificent structure . . . . a monument to the timeless, enduring quality of great music!

And in radio . . . . bringing you the delight of classic or modern music—entertainment of your choice . . . . here is quality that can be counted as enduring, too.

Faithfulness of reproduction and the consequent beauty of rich, full tone will never lose their power to charm you. Measured by this fundamental standard, the performance of the Day-Fan All-electric Radio gives guarantee of many seasons' satisfaction.

Eight tubes (9 with rectifier) are employed in the design of this receiver. Two power tubes in combination (instead of one) deliver the output to the loud speaker . . . . full volume is handled splendidly without distortion. Four stages of radio frequency increase selectivity and sensitiveness, while complete shielding enhances the all-important quality of clear tone.

LAWMAKERS OF STATE TAKE RECESS

mise offered by the Los Angeles delegation, leader of the movement was also voted down.

The committee will meet during the recess and was empowered to call witnesses and secure evidence.

The resolution adopted emphacized the fact that Judge Hardy should be considered by his general record and not particularly by the McPherson case.

1859 Bills Introduced

A total of 1859 bills were introduced during the session, 814 in the senate and 1045 in the assembly.

The legislators will now return to their homes to consider the bills submitted, returning here Feb. 18 for a session of approximately two months.

Bills proposing momentous changes in state government, and penal codes have been introduced. Many presage interesting battles on the floors of the senate and assembly when the legislature reconvenes.

Reorganization of the state administration proposed by Gov. C. C. Young will probably feature the start of the next session.

Bills to put into effect the constitutional taxation amendment adopted by the people at the November election have been introduced, others following recommendations of the crime commission. The famous "search and seizure" bill of William Hornblower, San Francisco, assemblyman an amendment to the Wright Act and a bill making second convictions for violators of the prohibition law punishable by jail sentences were also introduced.

Many legislators will remain here until tomorrow night to attend meeting of the California Publishers Association, which is holding its forty second convention here with more than 400 publishers in attendance. They were guests at a banquet of the publishers tonight.

Programs For Junior High Schools Told

The Richmond junior high schools yesterday made public plans for programs and assemblies during the spring semester.

The programs will start Feb. 8 with a play "Alice in Wonderland" and will end June 7.

The play will be directed by Miss Christian Walther and will be presented in the Roosevelt junior high school. Boys' and girls' meetings will be held on Feb. 8. Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays will be celebrated Feb. 15.

At the Longfellow school separate meetings for boys and girls will be held on the first day of the month with a Lincoln day celebration Feb. 8 and a Washington day program on Feb 21.

A play will be presented by the Roosevelt junior high school on March 8, to be followed by a play on March 15 at the Longfellow school.

Dramatics will head the first April program at Longfellow on April 5 with separate meetings at Roosevelt. The following Friday, April 12, Miss Nell McGrew will present a play at Roosevelt.

Wesley Church Group Fetes Father, Sons

Fathers and Sons night was enjoyed by the Wesley Methodist Church Brotherhood last night in the church parlors.

Dr. L. Pent of Oakland was the speaker of the evening. He spoke on the moral training of children. Talks were made by fathers and sons.

The program included community singing and duets by Ed Hill and his son Edward, junior.

The dinner was served by the members of Circle No. 3 of the Ladies Aid society under the direction of Mrs. Kell Jenkins.

Girl Scouts' Leaders Hold Classes Here

A large enthusiastic number of Richmond women last night attended the first class for Girl Scout leaders held in the Longfellow junior high school band house under the direction of Miss Susan Dyer, national Girl Scout executive.

The classes will be held each Monday night starting Jan. 21 at the Richmond clubhouse, the group decided last night. The classes will be conducted from 7:15 to about nine o'clock each Monday night. They are open to Richmond women who are interested in Girl Scout work.

All phases of the work accomplished by the Scouts, their purpose, training and other features are discussed by the classes. Nationally known experts will assist in the classes.

Campfire Girl Training Class Opens Monday

The first school for training of Campfire Girls will be held Monday night with instructors from Oakland and Berkeley present. The course will be open to women of Richmond who are interested in the work. There will be classes Monday and Thursday nights.

Among the instructors will be Miss Annette Francisco, national field worker and others identified with Campfire Girls work.

CHEVROLET SIX MODEL SHOWS MECHANISM

It is natural for a motorist to wonder what makes the wheels go round and round.

The Chevrolet automobile company has recognized this part of human nature and has sent a "cut away" Chevrolet six chassis to tour the nation. The chassis is now at the Golden Rule Chevrolet company's sales room on Macdonald avenue at Fifteenth street and is attracting large crowds of enthusiastic motorists. The car will be on display today and tomorrow.

The engine, distributor, water jacket, drive shaft, clutch housing are cut away to show the working parts of the car. An electric motor [illegible] the engine which in turn drives the rear wheels.

The three bearing heavy crank shaft is shown in action, its speed greatly reduced. The crankshaft revolves and can be seen through a hole cut in the crankcase. In actual operation the crankcase would be full of lubricating oil.

Next the single plate dry clutch is shown in action. The power can then be traced to the gear case. While the car is in action the gears have been shifted to "high." A close study of the gears through the cut away sections shows their action when the gears are shifted.

The power is then traced back to the torque tube to the rear axle to the ring and pinion gears of high nickle steel. Gears then turn the rear wheels, sending the car forward.

The engine is of the valve-in-head design and gasoline is supplied through a fuel pump instead of the usual vacuum tank. Oil is filtered before returned to the crankcase.

The display is not only a novelty but has also been a model to lovers of fine cars.

Labor Groups To Meet In Martinez

A joint meeting of labor groups will be held in Martinez Tuesday night at the Martinez Odd Fellow's hall, according to an announcement made yesterday by the Richmond Central Labor Council.

The Martinez session will be attended by a large delegation from this city. Speakers of note will address the assemblage and a program will be presented.

Salvation Army Group Here Wins Praise Of Heads

Division officers of the Salvation Army have lauded the Richmond Girl Guards troop as one of the most up-to-date best equipped troop of its kind in the entire Golden Gate division.

Women of the Salvation Army Home League, who are sponsoring the troop have purchased all necessary equipment and supplies and have personally made the uniforms.

The troop was formed some weeks ago, and have met regularly every week.

The troop is under the leadership of Mrs. Jack Wilkins, Miss Mildred Atwood and Mrs. Omar Knutson.

Dr. Frisbie had just completed her testimony before four state senators and four representatives when she submitted her resignation, accompanied by that of Miss Lips.

"My conscience is clear," Dr. Frisbie had testified. "I feel that the girl died of natural causes."

District Attorney Eugene Lujan said after the close of the legislative inquiry that he was prepared to file manslaughter charges against both women Saturday. He explained he had delayed doing so because he feared the criminal charges might impede the legislative investigation.

The senators and representatives returned to Santa Fe where they will report their findings to Gov. Richard C. Dillon.

DEMPSY FIRPO BALLYHOO MADE RICKARD FOREMOST PROMOTER OF FIGHT GAME

This story is based upon facts obtained by Kirksey up to the time of Rickard's illness, and on information gathered from many parts of the country and men and women who knew Rickard from boyhood, including his 81 year-old mother in Seattle, who contributed largely to the first chapter.

The story is copyrighted by the United Press associations.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

CHAPTER 9

It was during the period between the "Battle of the Century" and the Dempsey-Firpo fight that Tex Rickard achieved general recognition as the greatest of modern promoters.

During the two years that intervened between those epic fights Tex was constantly in the limelight recognized now as dictator by the [illegible] but still to win the financial backing which a little later was to make him a millionaire as well. The development of an opponent for Jack Dempsey was Rickard's chief concern during the year 1922. The big South American, Luis Angel Firpo having been decided upon, the problem then became twofold. Firpo had to be "bally-hooed" as no heavyweight contender save Carpentier ever had been, and he had to be brought along carefully with a skillful selection of opponents, so that he might not accidentally be knocked as flat as his native pampas.

"The Wild Bull," a towering unkempt, illiterate shaggy-haired creature swept aside all the chosen opposition with a wave of his mighty right hand. Firpo's tactics were to rush grimacing from his corner and hurl his whole tremendous bulk upon his opponent behind a crushing right hand blow. It was obvious that the South American was what is known in ring parlance as "a sucker for a left hook." But Tex saw to it that the skilled left-hookers were kept well away from Firpo, whose awkwardness and lack of defense were minimized by the "ballyhoo" artists who played up the savage, destructive rush of "The Wild Bull of the Pampas".

LEASED POLO GROUNDS

Now it was time for Rickard to invade New York with his first big heavyweight fight in that city. The Moran-Willard affair paled to insignificance beside the Dempsey Firpo spectacle.

Tex leased the Polo Grounds and sent an array of carpenters to carpet the vast expanse of playing field with an unbroken stretch of pine seats.

The success of the "Battle of the Century" assured the success of this fight from a financial point of view. Everyone interested in boxing had to have a ringside seat, and Tex saw to it that there were plenty of tickets labelled ringside.

But the big question in Rickard's mind, which he never admitted to anyone before the battle, was: what would happen in the ring? Would Firpo's obvious inferiority cause the South American to prove a chopping block for Dempsey and expose the promoter to the charge of having bilked the public? Would this be the last of the "million-dollar gates?" Tex, with his mind already roaming the future and envisioning not only "million dollar gates" but receipts running up to $2,000,000 and even $3,000,000, kept his fingers crossed and trusted in "Rickard luck" to bring him through this gamble.

The fight took place Sept. 14 1923 and turned out to be the most spectacular within the memory of living man, the most smashing destructive exhibition of savagery between heavyweights ever on record.

Thrill Upon Thrill

It lasted less than two rounds, but into that brief time was packed the drama of a whole cycle of fistiana. Thrill followed thrill un- [illegible] til men around the ring literally became hysterical. Some collapsed and never saw the finish. Those in front stood up on their seats, which made it impossible for those behind to see the ring. Thousands who paid their way in never saw the fight, but everyone felt he had his money's worth by having been a party to that five minutes of sheer hysteria.

Rickard was made greater than ever by the sheer chance that the fight turned out as it did.

Firpo lumbered from his corner at the bell, caught Dempsey before the champion could get his hands up, and smashed home a looping overhand right which grazed Jack's temple. If the blow had landed on "the button," the fight would have been over. As it was, Dempsey sank to one knee but recovered quickly, and Firpo was too clumsy to take advantage of his opening.

Then began a smashing series of knockdowns, with science forgotten. The mighty frame of Firpo was flattened to the canvas time after time but always he clambered bewilderedly to his feet and Dempsey smashed him down again. Firpo came up fighting, starting his punches before his hands left the canvas as he tottered upright. Occasionally Jack lashed home to the "Wild Bull's" battered chops before Firpo was fairly on his feet, but rules were forgotten in the madness of that first three minutes.

Dempsey Through Ropes

The climax of the round came towards its close when a long sweeping right from Firpo, who had been doing some fighting on his own behalf, sent Dempsey staggering back upon the ropes.

For an agonizing moment the heavyweight champion of the world was balanced on the middle strand of rope, head and torso outside. Then he fell head-first into the welter of shouting newspapermen at the ringside.

"Help me back, boys" stammered Jack, and help him they did, shoving the champion back to the ring where the "Wild Bull" pawed and snorted.

Firpo fell upon Dempsey, crushed him to the ropes, hammered him with both hands, beating against the arm behind which Jack tried to protect his jaw. The bell found the big Argentine and the dazed champion in equally bad shape. Firpo was exhausted and fell down upon reaching his corner.

Won Between Rounds

Between rounds, the fight was won. Jack Kearns, in Dempsey's corner, ministered skillfully and speedily to his man. Smelling salts, a soothing massage, a quick whispered word or two and the champion was himself again.

Firpo's seconds threw a half-bucket of dirty water in the general direction of their man and stood gaping at him.

The second round was a slaughter of the "Wild Bull." Dempsey was fighting mad, but "cold mad." He slashed viciously with left and right hooks alternately and Firpo went down as though pole-axed. When the glazed eyes finally closed and the great hairy limbs refused any longer to respond to the Argentine's game spirit, Luis Angel Firpo rolled over onto his back and was counted out. How many times he went down will always be a subject for dispute.

This fight grossed $1,188,602.80 and added greatly to Rickard's prestige. So generally approved was his handling of the battles of the heavyweight champion that he was able to resist for three years thereafter insistent demands that Jack Dempsey fight again.

Tomorrow's chapter will deal with Rickard's dream of a magnificent sports palace.

Miss McRacken Second In Play

Miss Hazel McRacken, Richmond's foremost woman golfer annexed second low net in the "Class A" division in the invitational tournament staged by the Berkeley country club recently. Mrs. Cecil B. McMasters, of the Oak Knoll club scored a 99 for low gross to win the tourney.

Miss McRacken played a stellar round to take a 105-8-87 as compared to Mrs. A. M. McIntosh who scored 106-13-93 for low net winner.

Junior Cagers To Start Games

The first games in the Junior Basketball league will be played this afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. with the First Baptists and the San Pablo Baptists clashing. The league is composed of teams from churches and clubs with a 125 pound limit set for thhe players. Games will be played on Saturday afternoons.

Age Ruling To Aid Juniors In Legion League

Announcement in Louisville yesterday by Dan Sowers, permitting players who will not have reached their seventeenth birthday by Sept. 14 1929 to play on American Legion junior league teams is expected to keep many youngsters in the field.

The Richmond commission will meet March 16 to lay definite plans for the season, according to Harry Burt chairman of the American Legion committee.

W. "Chick" Autrey is chairman of the Richmond commission and is assisted by the presidents of the following leagues:

W. W. Scott, National league head D. M. Bradley, American; Dan J. Cox, Pacific Coast, and Frank Shallenberger, American association. Ed Hill is the secretary of the commission.

An appropriation of $50,000 to aid in staging the games and encouraging the leagues has been made by the National and American leagues. All regional series will be completed this year by Aug. 22 with sectional games ending Sept. 3.

The "little world series" will be held following the end of the sectional series with the winners gaining the right to attend the World Series between the leading major league teams. The Montgomery Ward team of Oakland won the national championship last year.

RICHMOND CAGE TEAM LOSES TO CARDS

The Stanford frosh basketball team defeated the Richmond high school varsity team last night at Palo Alto 51 to 12, according to United Press dispatches.

The Richmond team was too small for the frosh team and was outweighed and over reached.

At the end of the first quarter the score stood 16 to 0 in favor of the Cardinals. The Richmond team started its first scoring in the last of the first half when they were able to push through the Stanford guards and ring a bucket. A free throw gave them an extra point. The score was 31 to 3 at the end of the half.

Stanford came back with a rush in the third quarter and scored point after point, forcing the local boys to spend the quarter trying to guard their goal. The third quarter ended with the score 43 to 3.

Spurred on by a desperate effort and to keep themselves from being white washed the local boys were able to score nine points by a desperate effort in the last quarter.

Gordon and Page were high men for the Richmond team with four points each. Hall followed with three points and Lane brought up the rear with one point.

Although the score was one-sided, the game was decidedly not so. The Richmond team played a good game and contested every move by the Stanford squad.

C. Cagers Of High Defeat Longfellow

Playing a fast and furious game the Richmond union high school C basketball team defeated the Longfellow junior high school squad 16 to 12 yesterday at the Longfellow gymnasium.

The lineups:

LONGFELLOW (12) Cerneto, Snyder, Hickock, forwards; Passoni, center; P. Prescrito, McCausland, Corrozo, guards.

Deaf Students Hear Without Use of Ears

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 00—UP—Ears are not needed for hearing tests at the Texas State school for the Deaf show. Sound waves are being transmitted direct to the auditory nerves, detoured around the ears to the back of the head.

The tests are made with apparatus devised by Dr. J. W. McDonald, in cooperation with institution officials.

SAN PABLO NINE FACES TEST SUNDAY

The San Pablo ball club will face the crisis of the season tomorrow afternoon when it goes into action against the Piggly Wiggly nine at the Pacific Coast league park in Emeryville. The winner of the game will be virtually the champion of the second half of the league.

The Piggly Wiggly team has been playing a good season; for that matter the San Pablo club's season has been something to write home to the folks about.

Roland Roberts has been pitching for the San Pablans and has been hurling a good game. Bill Gualdoni, who will report to the Hollywood Stars in February, will be behind the plate. Bill has been doing some pretty hitting.

Young and Hurst will probably form the battery for the Piggly Wiggly nine. The two have been working together like the well known twins this year. Last Sunday they lost their first start in nine games to the Johnson Clothiers. Earl Jones shut them out.

Richmond Men In Bowling Matches

Richmond bowlers have qualified for first and second round play in the San Francisco Examiner's bowling tourney now being played in San Francisco, according to word received here last night.

E. Pinkerton of Richmond had high score of 681 at the Powell street alleys in San Francisco and Dr. W. Long of Richmond was high man at the Maryland Mecca with a score of 666.

Bagshaw Fate As Grid Coach To Be Decided

SEATTLE, Jan. 18—(U.P.)—It was still undecided tonight whether Coach Enoch Bagshaw of the University of Washington football team was in fact "fired."

The student board of control did as much as it could last night to sever Bagshaw from his job.

After hours of speech-making by advocates for and against the coach, the control body in this morning's small hours ended its session with a resolution "relieving" the chief grid mentor of his position.

But its decision may not be final.

The faculty athletic committee was on Bagshaw's side. It was certain, authentic reports had it, that if it will be within the faculty committee's power, the control board action will be vetoed.

Local Bowling Team Wins Game

The Long's Chiropractors of Richmond defeated the Hercules bowling team by a score of 2664 to 2488 recently in the Contra Costa bowling league at Hercules.

H. Carr was high man for the locals with 557 points and Huston was high man for the losers with 502 points.

The results were as follows:

Corbin Leading Cage Scorers

BERKELEY, Jan. 18.— Capt. Vern Corbin, All-Coast center and pivot man for the University of California basketball team, is once more leading scorer of the southern division of the Pacific Coast conference. In conference games played to date Corbin has run up a total of 22 points, his nearest competitor being Mortenson, center on the U. S. C. quintet, whose conference play has netted him 19 digits.

Corbin is also leading scorer on the California squad, having run up a total of 53 points in seven games played. Although he is out for the rest of the season with a broken arm, "Frenchy" Larrieu, forward still retains second place with 48 points.

"Richmond's Harbor Facilities Offer Outstanding Advantages To The Manufacturer"

This advertisement was written by a Richmond high school girl, winner of second place in a recent contest instituted by Fred D. Parr. Her essay sums up reasons for Richmond's progress in past years and points the way to future success by the cooperation of citizens.

By HELEN ELIASON

Rapid industrial development is the power which creates a flourishing city, and a good harbor is an important factor in industrial development. The successes of a great number of large and prominent cities, among which are Baltimore, New York City, Chicago, New Orleans and San Francisco, may be attributed to the fact that they are all built on harbors. Their industrial development, also, has been rapid enough to warrant their great size and importance in the world today.

Richmond has all the important factors necessary to combine to form a successful city. It has an advantageous location, being built at the entrance to the center of industrial life on the Pacific Coast. The San Francisco Bay is, in fact, the terminus of the commerce of the west. Richmond can develop a monopoly on that commerce and become the leading member of the bay group of industrial centers. Its harbor is excellent; its industrial development is assured.

Twenty-five years ago, the locality of Richmond was merely grazing and farm land. Its rapid progress was begun by its selection in 1899 by the Santa Fe railroad Company to be the San Francisco Bay terminus for that railroad. Its growth from then on was continuous and has resulted so far in the flourishing community it now is, having a present population of approximately 30,000. Its social life has developed consistently, and its public utilities are of great value in the city. Its library is a powerful factor in the community life, having a circulation of 317,000 volumes annually. Its hotels, stores, restaurants and municipal entertainment features are well managed.

Richmond's harbor facilities offer outstanding advantages to the manufacturer. There are sixteen miles of deep water along its harbor line. The outer Parr Terminal offers thirty-five feet of water while these is thirty feet of water at the inner harbor Parr Terminal docks and wharves. More than $2,000,000 has been spent in harbor improvements during the past few years, and other millions will be spent in the immediate future to provide additional facilities to industry. All these facilities for success havng been provided by nature, the cost of developing them will be comparatively small.

The first industry to discern the advantages offered by Richmond was the Santa Fe Railroad Company. Other companies followed its example, and now a great number of prominent industries may be named that are thriving here today, and many more could be listed if the harbor could be properly developed.

In every case, progress would be facilitated by a more extensive development of the harbor and can only be realized when the citizens of Richmond join in wholehearted co-operation in the great forward march of industry.

FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS SURPRISED BY MY QUICK RECOVERY

FONG WAN Eminently Successful Herbalist

San Jose, Cal. Nov 13, 1928. To Whom it May Concern:

For some time past I suffered with nervous attacks similar to St. Vitus Dance. My speech was so affected that I could scarcely make myself understood. My heart beat fast and nosily. I tried every method of healing known to me in vain. Then I was recommended to try the Fong Wan Herbs. Now, after but two weeks of that treatment, I am completely well.

My friends and neighbors as well as the men who formerly treated me are all surprised at my recovery in almost no time. All inquire as to whose skill has brought me such wonderful and quick relief.

(Signed) JOSEPHINE DOMINGUZ.
(Attested by her mother, Mrs. Anna Dominguz, 645 Emery-st., San Jose, Cal.)

People who wish to learn more about Fong Wan's knowledge of herbs and methods of healing should get his new book free at his office or mailed to any address upon receipt of 10c postage.

that two heads had at one time existed on the same earth.

Lime Found

In the single grave he declared he found a quantity of lime.

The young defendant attorney brought out in the cross-examination that his father, Cyrus North, had taken the lime to the ranch and knew what it was to be used for.

Lloyd further related that he found a can on the ranch that was identified by N. H. Winslow of Pomona as belonging to either of his boys Nelson and Lewis—both Northcott asserted victims of abuse and axe.

Northcott Studied

He testified that he had received letters from the American consul in Vancouver, B. C. stating that the consul had affidavits of Jessie Clark, 19, telling of a murder on the Northcott ranch which had been related by her brother, Sanford, chief prosecution witness.

Northcott obviously was endeavoring today to do his best to "make an impression" on several criminologists who were in court to study the defendant.

He tried to confuse Junior Thompson, 11, during the morning session when the lad testified that Northcott attempted to kidnap him at an amusement park near River Ile.

Court adjourned late today until Monday morning.

Law Enforcement Topic Of Address Before Rotarians

Enforcement of laws will do more to reduce crime and decrease the number of prisoners in penitentiaries than any other procedure, according to Duncan Mathison, captain of detectives of the San Francisco police department who was the speaker before the Richmond Rotary club in the Hotel Carquinez yesterday noon.

Several solos were sung by H. H. Mylander, president of the Lions club. Richard Spiersch was chairman of the day. Charles S. Renwick, president, presided.

SIX KILLED IN MIDWEST STORM

Mo., and a sixth fatality was reported at Ft. Branch, Ind.

Two Schools Destroyed

Two schools and a dozen buildings were destroyed and several persons injured in the Maunie storm.

Two of the three persons killed there were identified as Dorothy Hanley and Bernice Tucker, both of whom were caught in the collapse of the three room school house. The third body was believed to be that of a daughter of Irwin Hayes. The injured included Margaret Rose, amputated arm, and Lula Ware, broken leg.

Marjorie Hargraves, 1, and her brother, Buddy 3, were killed when the storm demolished their farm home 20 miles south of Cape Girardeau.

Mrs. Mary Nolan was killed and her husband injured at Fort Branch, Ind. Reports indicated the damage was widespread in that section.

All telephone lines between St. Louis and Harrisburg, Ill., which is located to the west of Maunie and Carmi, were reported "out of commission" indicating the storm was causing considerable damage throughout southern Illinois.

The wind was moving at a velocity of 40 miles an hour in southern Indiana, Illinois and part of Missouri. Several houses and barns were demolished throughout the wide territory affected.

Another storm swept through northern Illinois points, paralyzing telephone communication and causing much damage. Telephone wires into Sterling, Dixon, Freeport and other points near the Wisconsin border were down.

STRICKEN CITY IN CALL FOR AID

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 18—(UP)—An emergency call for 24 doses of anti-tetanus serum was received late today by the American Red Cross headquarters here from Maunie, Ill., where a heavy windstorm killed three persons, injured several others and wrecked numerous buildings, including two schools.

Field agents in Alexander, Marion and Williamson counties, in southern Illinois in the path of the storm which took a toll of life in three states, reported no deaths or damage in their districts.

A Bedroom Suite Value Creates Sensation

One of the outstanding happenings during the Holiday Season in the merchandise world was the sale of a bedroom suite at Breuners—a suite so designed and so reasonably priced that within the month of December alone, 120 understood that a carload of one suite is a big purchase and sale for the average store—and that one carload often lasts an entire season—the purchase and sale of 120 suites (or three carloads) in groups of it were sold. When it is one month is truly phenomenal.

Our January allotment has just arrived—and now is your opportunity to secure one of them for your home! It is well built of hardwood, with all broad surfaces of fine, matched grain walnut veneers—these hand rubbed to a soft, deep, shaded sheen. It is not overburdened with decorative motifs, but depends upon choice veneers, unusual shapings, well-defined wood carvings and turnings for its allure. You'll never grow tired of "The Luray" in your home—and its price puts it easily within your reach. Buy it at Breuner's today — or next week! (Use Our Budget Plan).
